This is a unique four-day rowing regatta designed to commemorate 100 years of rowing in Canada and mark the sport's participation in celebrations of the Centennial of Canadian Confederation while at the same time introducing Canada's new national rowing course and providing North American rowing with its first FISA-sanctioned continental rowing championship.

Crews and scullers from more 20 of the world's leading rowing nations have already entered the August 10-13 event, making it the largest and most ambitious international competition in the history of North American rowing. It is a regatta which no rowing fan will want to miss.

The Maple Leaf Trophy, emblematic of the Club Championship of the Royal Canadian Henley Regatta, was won again last year by the St. Catharines Rowing Club and here C.A.A.O. President Russell Wood makes the presentation to the Club's President Oscar Tasane and Captain Gerald Cheevers. The occasion marked the sixth successive year that the St. Catharines Rowing Club had won the Henley Championship — a feat unprecedented in the annals of rowing!

The new scope of The Ontario Department of Labour

THE HON. DALTON BALES, Q.C.
Ontario Minister of Labour

A primary role of the Department of Labour is the development and protection of our most valuable asset - - our human resources.

As social and economic changes place increasing emphasis on human resources, the Department has expanded its services to help the people of Ontario adjust to and benefit from change.

The Department has developed a wide range of programs in the fields of Labour Relations, Human Rights, Industrial Training, Labour Standards, Working Women, Construction and Industrial Safety and all the associated Areas within the scope of its administration.

We anticipate that the great changes of the '60's are only the forerunner of new social and economic advances. Whatever these changes may be, it is our resolve that the facilities of the Department will continue to keep pace with public needs and expectations.

The Coxswain

He's the Coxswain of the Crew,
He's a man of derring-do,
And he ranks with the great warriors of old;
He's the ultimate in loyalty,
With the pride of reigning royalty,
And his story — long past due — shall now be told.

He's young David with a slingshot in his hand,
Out to fell the giant Goliath to the sand,
With his courage he can do it — it's certain he'll come through it
Acclaimed the greatest fighter in the land.

He's Achilles battling at the gates of Troy,
And don't be fooled because he looks a boy,
For he's ruthless as a shark when the crews row
of the mark
And victory is his goal and greatest joy.

He's Ulysses, wise and crafty — and it's true
That some say there's no greater rascal, too!
For he'll scheme from sun to sun how to beat the starting gun
And gain his Crew an extra stroke or two.

Now this is what he alone can do —
Listen him address his weary Crew
Which rowed all out but lost a hard-fought race;
And each man from stroke to bow
Feels that he is all through now,
And despair is stark on every sweating face:

"You rowed well — you didn't win,
But to lose is no damn' sin
When a crew rows as you rowed — with everything;
So I want heads up in this boat!
And keep them up when on the float —
Men, I'd rather cox this Crew than be a king!"

And his men hear him, amazed,
Scarce believing they'd been praised
By the fiercest fighter they have ever known;
And his words are spark and flame
Resolving them to try again
And despair, by now, has taken wings and flown.

So they row it to the float,
From the water take the boat,
And, all heads high, they grimly walk it in;
And bugles seem to blow
As you watch that Coxswain go —
Marching proudly with his Crew which didn't win.

Then, of course, there came a day
When his oarsmen got away
With a surge of power that started with the gun;
And he snarled and clawed and spat
Like a hungry jungle cat
As he drove them without mercy — and they won!

Now every man rests on his oar,
Spent and breathless from his chore,
While the crowd in frenzied tumult shouts its cheers;
And the Coxswain's throat is tight
At this sound and at this sight —
And his eyes are filled with boyish, unshed tears.

But he hides his deep emotion,
Which is proof of his devotion
To his oarsmen — they see only his tough grin,
As he faces each and all
And states in a slow drawl,
"At last, you guys, you get to throw me in!"

So now you know his story,
And his special claim to glory,
As he steers you right and fights his fight for you;
He's a tiger, he's a brother,
And he's for you like no other —
Take your hats off to the Coxswain of the Crew!

ROYAL CANADIAN HENLEY CHAMPIONS — 1966

Senior 135-lb. Eights: St. Catharines Rowing Club. In one of the closest finishes in Henley history, this St. Catharines Crew — winner of the Junior 135-lb. Eights on the Thursday — won the Senior 135-lb. Eights on Saturday in the last split-second over a crack Buffalo West Side Crew. Coming from behind in a Finish drive that had the crowd on its feet and roaring, the Crew nipped West Side on the last stroke of the race.

The St. Catharines Rowing Club Old Boys' Association is a group of former oarsmen dedicated to the promotion and support of rowing and the Old Boys' contributions to this worthy cause — in time, labor and money — have been unstinted and invaluable.

Orlin Beaucock is President of the Old Boys', Conrad Livingstone is Vice-President, Jack Arbuthnot is Secretary and Pat Hughes is Treasurer; the Directors are Past President Frank Dwyer, Bill Smith, Brian Anderson, Walt Plato, Irv Semph and Don McClelland. One hundred and ten active members make up the Old Boys' roster.

This group will make you as welcome as the flowers in May during your visit with them — And if you spend a dollar or two while on the Island, just bear in mind that in the interests of rowing the cash couldn't be in better hands than those of

"A 19th CENTURY CAR RIDE"

It does not take anything away from Henry Ford's monumental achievements to bring attention to the fact that he was not by any means the first producer of automobiles and he worked for 15 years after the turn of the century to produce the car that was to become a household word and endless source of material for song and joke, the Model T. But Henry's name does crop up in the pre 1900 days in a Sunday supplement story of a reporter's ride in an automobile. It was called, "A Ride with Henry", and it went like this . . . "Mr. Ford, the automobileer, began by giving his steed three or four sharp jerks at the right side of the seat . . . in order, he said, to drive the charge of air and gasoline into the exploding cylinder — with incomparable swiftness the machine picked up its speed and glided into the snowy, windblown street. The puffing of the engine assumed a higher key. She was flying along at eight miles an hour . . . "Hold on tight", said Ford, when we strike the asphalt we will have a run." "How fast?" "Twenty-five miles an hour". "Hold on, I'll get out." Bang! Bang! That was the warning bell under the seat. Whiz . . . she picked up speed with infinite rapidity. As she rushed on, there was a clattering behind — the new noise of the automobile . . . I began to have a creepy feeling and told Ford I wanted to get out. "Nonsense," he replied, "No danger . . . I'll wager that a race horse cannot be hauled up in less than one minute but we'll do it in six feet . . . "With that the automobileer pushed something, and with the suddenness of complete collapse, the steed came to a standstill.

This page from The Thompson Auto Album brought to you with pleasure by the Automobile manufacturer's manufacturer Thompson Products, for over thirty years a leader in Canadian Industry.

The Boatman

Ever since the days of Argus
Who was Boatman to the crew from Greece
(This crew rowed his boat the "Argo"
And with it won the Golden Fleece),
Every crewman, every sculler,
Every man who rows a boat,
Brings his troubles to the Boatman —
He who keeps them all afloat.

"We caught a crab and fouled an oarlock,
The stroke went up and three was slow.
The crew is waiting and time is wasting —
Get on the job, we're due to row!"

Days are long and nights uncertain
For the man who mends the boats
He's toiling ever, finished never,
And no one knows the load he totes!
Broken riggers, twisted rudders,
Footstops loose and splintered oars,
All these — and a hundred others —
Drive him madly to his chores.

"Rowing forty at the quarter,
We hit a deadhead and whacked the bow.
The crew is waiting and time is wasting —
Fix it, man, and do it now!"

When first the crews go on the water
And after they've rowed stop-watch courses,
The doughty Boatman pits his magic
Against all the evil forces
That try his patience — plague his efforts —
Vex his labors — and never stop
Until he's frantic, raging, speechless,
And fears that he may blow his top.

"That new shell's 'checked' and taking water,
Mend it now to make it last.
The crew is waiting and time is wasting —
Patch it up and make it fast!"

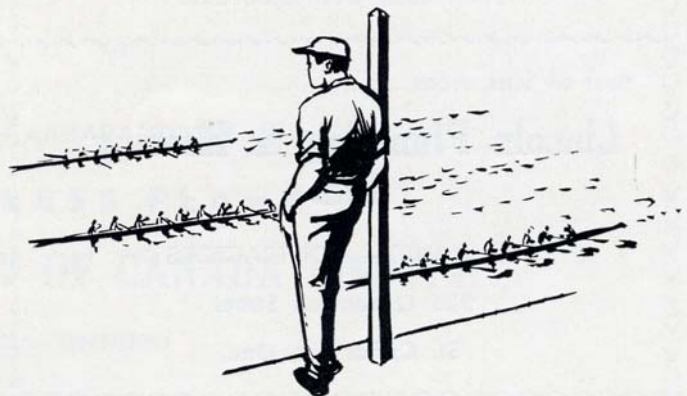

Then, in the shining days of Henley,
The Boatman mingles with the crowd
To see his boats go into action
He's dog-tired — yes — but also proud.
His oarlocks strong, his riggers tested,
His rudders true, his footstops tight,
His oars all good and newly painted —
From bow to stern his boats are "right".

So, with pride, he watches oarsmen
Row his boats with rhythmic swing,
Boats that move with a smooth precision
That proves no flaw in anything.

Suddenly the crowd is roaring,
Loudly applauding, praises pealing,
A thunderous paean that shatters silence
With all the force of pent-up feeling —
Is this ovation for the Boatman,
He who kept the shells afloat,
He who worked from dawn through darkness
Striving mightily with each boat?

Smiling grimly — knowing well
That this acclaim should him be due,
You'll hear him mutter, "Forget it, brother —
Those cheers are for a WINNING CREW!"
